"Vexatious litigants" - that's public record right? Incredible.

Here's a post script to my earlier message. Keith Foreman is the Navy project manager and he spoke with Andre Patterson last week. Yesterday was the BCT meeting for Treasure Island and Mr. Patterson was discussed. Here are the salient points:

- He has been calling the Navy Admiral in San Diego daily for the last couple of weeks and threatened to call the White House. The Navy gave him the White House contact information.
- He has also call Forman frequently. Forman spoke with him most recently last week
- He has threatened to sue the State of California, the Navy, and Keith Forman, personally about Treasure Island

- Patterson is not a resident of TI, but a female he is associated with, Felicia Sample, is a resident. (Forman didn't know the nature of their relationship. They have apparently both been involved in numerous lawsuits in the past)
- As a result of their frequent and apparently unfounded lawsuits, the State of California Court has classified them both as "vexatious litigants"
- Both Patterson and Sample have identified "excessive dead skin on the bottom of their feet" as a symptom of their exposure to radiation on TI.

Enrique,

This email is in response to the voice mail message I forwarded to you from Andre Patterson, a resident at Treasure Island. Mr. Patterson has a long history of calling EPA staff both at HQ and here in the Region, and being aggressive and contentious. Given the tone of his most recent message and that he threatened to contact Boxer's and Pelosi's office, I wanted you to be informed.

Last Friday, David, David Yogi and Rusty and I met to discuss an appropriate response/talking points. Afterwards I called Mr. Patterson and left a message and my phone number. He has not contacted me. Brent is also aware and hasn't heard anything from Boxer or Pelosi but will let us know if he does. I also wanted you to know how the Navy is increasing their community involvement.

The Navy is planning to:

- Be more proactive in dealing with the media.
- Take great care to minimize dust and other disturbance in all subsequent field work
- Communicate better to the residents, particularly those at Site 12 where sampling is being conducted
- Offer in-house meetings with the residents to answer questions and explain the work

The Navy's goal is to get ahead of the Media over the next 3 – 4 months. The Navy has brought in high level people who are tasked with developing a Media Plan.

RAB:

- There is a growing divergence between the Treasure Island Community and the RAB. The long-time RAB members think the Navy is dealing appropriately with radiological concerns at Treasure Island.
- Most vocal community members don't want to join the RAB. They see it as co-opted by the Navy.

As you know, DTSC is the lead agency at this non-NPL site; EPA's role is minor. David attends the RAB meetings and other site meetings but just to keep track of site progress. If you have any questions or concerns let me know.
